

Auditorium Closure

by Shirley Bishop

The Auditorium will be CLOSED beginning June 12 for repairs of the roof and updating the restrooms to ADA compliance. The lobbies of the Auditorium and Dining Hall will also be getting a facelift. All activities for the Auditorium will be suspended until the Auditorium repairs are completed.

- THE PROCESS FOR ACTIVITIES CALENDAR
- Sign up for Time and Place at WEG office.
 - ONLY the person(s) that have signed the form requesting use of the time/meeting place can make any changes.
 - News & Views prints the Activities Calendar as supplied by WEG Office.

DISCLAIMER

News & Views is not responsible for any changes that need to be made to the Activities Calendar. Please have the person(s) who signed up for the Activities Calendar go to the WEG office and make the necessary changes: Group or Event Name – Day(s) – Time – Location.

Holiday Flags by Boy Scouts

by Stan Hiller

For a mere $25, the Boy Scouts of America Troop 459, located here in Woodburn, will install a 3' x 5' flag, like the one pictured, a day or two in advance of Memorial Day, Flag Day, Fourth of July, and Veterans' Day. They will return after these holidays and take down the flags.

The scouts do this as a fundraiser. Contact Dusty Price 503-201-6840 if you would like to get signed up. Or pick up an application form at the News & Views bulletin board.

It would be great to see lots of homes in Woodburn Estates & Golf showing our patriotism with flags in our yards. If you do not want the minor expense, you can always put up your own flag. Thank you.

Bingo Volunteers Needed!

by Kathy Hiller

Myrt Horton informed me recently that he is no longer able to oversee the Wednesday Night Bingo. The group needs someone to be in charge. They also need able-bodied volunteers to setup and take down the bingo tables, and other duties. Show up at Bingo time, Wednesdays, 6:30 p.m., in the Dining Hall.

Let Us Know

by Shirley Bishop

If you have an interesting and/or funny story you would like to share, just jot it down and email it to the N & V and we will put it in the paper for all to enjoy.

Keep Us Informed

by Shirley Bishop

Please let us hear from your group and let us know if anything is new or changed or just interesting.

Club or Group Event Application Updated

by Janice Aiken, Rules Director

If your club or group filled out a Club or Group Application at the first of this year, the original applicants must go into the WEG office and fill out the new updated form. There is new information on the form that you need to be aware of. Thank you.

We look forward to the next drive to be held in December.

Good Retort

by Evelyn White

Did you hear about the gal who was walking up to the clubhouse entrance when a man announced, “Well, here comes that beautiful Evelyn White.”
Instead of saying ‘Aren’t you spreading it a little thick?’ she put her hands on her hips and said, “If you’ve got it, flaunt it!”

NEWS AROUND THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Author! Author!

by Carol Wellington

The Writers Group has a new home – the Conference Room. The capacity of this room allows for an increased number of members.

Consider this to be an invitation to join the group! The meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month at 1:00 p.m.

Members bring to the meeting a one or two-page manuscript and six or eight copies to share with other members. The manuscript copies are used by the members for the purpose of making suggestions to the writer. These copies are then returned to the author.

To quote one of the group members, Donna Wood, "If you are a poet, a journalist, a comedian... WE WELCOME YOU!"

Music Jammers

by Dena Hollod

Once again, someone said to me that their friends did not know what the “Jammers” are, so here we go again. Jammers (aka Music Jammers) is the name of a group of individuals who are musicians and come together twice a month to play for free for our enjoyment.

It was also said that we do not state where we meet. We meet at the Woodburn Estates & Golf Dining Hall on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

We start at 2 p.m., have a coffee and refreshments break at 3 p.m., and quit about 4 p.m. We need musicians, singers, and more people in our audience. Please come! It’s really a fun group and it is all FREE!

[Apologies for incorrect venue in the last Activities Calendar. The notice for May 28 should have shown DH (Dining Hall) but appeared as Swimming Pool. Ed.]

When it comes to Roofing... Don't be fooled by what the competition may have to offer!

FACT

Over the past 15 years RoofRite Services has successfully installed over 140+ New Roofs within Woodburn Estates and we have the statistics to back it up! It has always been our goal to exceed the minimum requirements for roof installation. New roofing contractors come and go, but RoofRite Services has a proven track record and, the reason we install the larger number of roofs can be summed up in three ways:

- 1. Above Standard Quality Products and Service.
- 2. Long Term Service and Stability with Proven Track Record.
- 3. Lifetime Warranty High Wind Algae Resistant Shingles

Making Golf Fun Again

by Chuck Johnson

On April 10th, I had the opportunity to tour our golf course with Larry Gilhuly, an agronomist from the USGA (United States Golf Association). Before his visit, Mr. Gilhuly requested that various Board members send him comments relative to the needs of our golf course.

I will summarize my response to Mr. Gilhuly as follows: Our golf course was constructed over 50 years ago when two factors were prevalent at that time. Number 1: Golf was basically a seasonal game in Oregon, not a year-round sport. Thus, courses back then were constructed without drainage being a priority. Now our golfers desire to play the game of golf throughout the year. Thus, drainage is a real issue on our golf course during our rainy season, notably on hole numbers 2, 12, 17, and 18. We need your advice on how to best address our drainage issues. Number 2: When our course was constructed years ago, golf was primarily a game played by men; thus, our golf course only has separate tee boxes on 4 of the 18 holes. Newer golf courses as you know have as many as 4-5 separate tee boxes on each hole, allowing golfers to play from a distance that suits their game. Lady golfers at our golf course are at a tremendous disadvantage as they must play our golf course from a distance almost equal to that of their male counterparts. Please, Mr. Gilhuly, address this issue.

I was pleased that when Mr. Gilhuly toured our golf course, he addressed both of my concerns in addition to making many other recommendations that when completed will enhance the appearance and playability of our course.

In addition to Mr. Gilhuly making recommendations addressing our drainage issue, I was even more pleased with his comments and recommendations regarding the placement of “new” forward tees. He pointed out that the average female golfer hits a golf ball approximately 75% as far as the average male golfer. Using the 75% factor, the current forward tees now played by our lady golfers of 5,065 yards is equivalent to men golfers playing a course of 6,753 yards. Wow! I don’t believe any of us old men duffers would be happy playing a golf course of 6,753 yards when we have difficulty with our current course of 5,398 yards!

Mr. Gilhuly went on to point out that new forward tees should be immediately installed to match comparable distance for both the men and lady golfers. In his subsequent report, he remarked that the goal of forming new forward tees is not to make the course easier or create lower handicaps, but rather to make the course more fun, improve the pace of play, and allow people who love the game to continue to play and enjoy the game of golf later in life.

Since the placement of the new forward tees, I have heard conflicting opinions regarding these new forward tees that are confusing to me. Apparently, some of the lady golfers at our course have stated that they prefer to play the old forward tees. I would surmise that only 10% or less of our lady golfers can reach the greens in regulation from the old forward tees on a regular basis. I would think that golf would be much more fun when greens can be reached in regulation and a golfer is putting for a birdie rather than for a par or worse. Perhaps the lady golfers who prefer the old, much longer distance forward tees are the lower handicap players who are concerned that the new shorter distance forward tees will allow for more parity and competition on the golf course.

Another complaint that I have heard was that the new forward tees are merely placed in the fairway as actual tee boxes are yet to be constructed. My comment to this would be to have patience as in time there will be new tee boxes constructed for the new forward tees. So in the meantime, the lady golfers can enjoy the fact that the new forward tees are placed in a very level lie, enhancing your ability to hit a good tee shot. Many of our current tee boxes are not level and I would rather tee off with a level lie in the fairway than on a tee box that presents an unlevel lie.

In conclusion, I know we continue to lose golfers, both ladies and men, who have given up a game they love as they have aged and can no longer get the distance off the tee that they once did. I know many senior men who would love to play in our Mixed Tournaments if they could find a lady golfing partner. The new forward tees could be an incentive to get golfers back out on the golf course, either playing on Ladies Day Golf or in Mixed Tournaments. The new forward tees are a necessary change that will allow the game to be more inclusive, more fun and less intimidating for people to play.

So the purpose of this article is to appeal to the Ladies Golf Club, the Mixed Tournament Committee, the Friday Funnies Group, and the Sundowner Group to immediately allow the ladies to play from the new forward tees as soon as the OGA rating performed on May 10th is received. Let’s make golf fun again for everyone!

Behind the Stove

by Donna Wood

A friend of mine, who grew up in New York City, asked me if I knew what the phrase “behind the stove” meant. She said she often ran into it in her reading and couldn’t picture it as she grew up only knowing steam heat.

I told her that my mother cooked on a wood stove all the time we lived in Central Park outside of Aberdeen, Washington. Since my mother always worked, it was up to me (the oldest), to beat it home from elementary school every day, light the wood stove, peel potatoes and have them boiling in the pot by the time mother got home. Once, the flame from the fire flared up and singed my eyebrows. Until they grew back, I was teased by the kids at school as they thought I had been smoking.

The wood stove had to be out a ways from the wall or it might have heated up the wall to the point of ignition. Behind the stove we always had a box of kindling and pitch for starting the fire and anything of size that we wanted to get out of the way. We often had other things behind the stove, like baby chickens in cold weather, cheeping and scrambling around for mash or water in their saucers. Baby kittens and pups would be let into the house during terrible weather until we were sure they were thriving. We even had baby pigs most every year, and if there were a lot of them and we thought they might get lost in the mud in the sty, or that the sow was not taking care of them properly, they also went behind the stove. I remember their squeals. They were a source of great joy to my sisters and me. We loved all baby animals.

The wood stoves, both in our houses and at school, were a great place to dry things off in rainy Grays Harbor. Dad would come in from doing chores and put his wet boots near the stove, hang his coat on a hook on the wall in back of the stove and place his wet gloves in the shelf on top of the stove. At school we would come in from walking to school (no buses for us) and hang our coats on the backs of chairs that were placed in a circle around the wood stove in the back of our classroom so that they would be dry by recess or time to go home.

Energy

by Carol Wellington

What comes to your mind when you think of solar energy? Panels on a roof top? Lights in the yard powered by the sun? Those are the first thoughts that come to my mind. What follows will provide another idea for the use of solar power.

Once, on Saturday in August, I was invited to pick Italian plums from my neighbor's tree. The crop was bountiful and the plums were unimaginably sweet. Some of the areas in the tree received more direct sun than others; those were the areas upon which we concentrated. At the conclusion of the harvest I became aware of a strange little plum dangling from one of the branches, blowing back and forth in the powerful breeze. If it could have spoken it would have said, “Look at what I have become”. This one-time plum had been naturally transformed into a prune by solar power.

Women and Distance

by Donna Wood

Women just do not grow up learning to judge distance. Men, on the other hand, have no problem being able to tell how long an extension cord is, how long a building is or how far anything is from here to there.

Women need to measure. They can’t seem to eyeball it. I first noticed this when I was teaching photography before automatic cameras became common. The lens would have to be set for distance. The boys in my class never questioned it and always got within range. The girls never seemed to have a clue of whether the distance was short or long, and no idea of how to figure it out.

Wendy, a woman friend of mine, joined the U.S. Forestry Service. One of her first assignments was to take 200 feet of hose along with her on a job. How embarrassing when you are the only woman and not able to calculate 200 feet! Where do men get this ability? It can’t be a sex-linked gene trait. Maybe they learn it on the football field, or the golf course, or calculating ballistics in the army. In any case, they have it and we don’t.

Perhaps when more women learn to play golf or take up field sports such as soccer, we too will be able to tell you how many yards it is to the coffee shop in the mall or how far away that fruit stand is from the road.

Summer Guest

Butterfly, Butterfly come rest on me

I like to feel you as close as can be.

I'm not a flower, nor a leaf on a tree

I'm just an earthling who longs to see.

See of the world with your eyes full of love

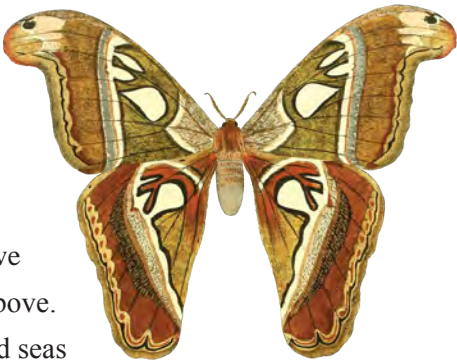

Compassion and wisdom form the ages above.

Take care when you fly over meadows and seas

Through thunder and starlight and the beautiful trees.

Go find a place now and rest for the night

Tomorrow you'll travel with the ancient of Light.

Vial of LIFE

Submitted by Diana Lindberg

Do you need or want to leave emergency information for your family, caregivers or emergency personnel? The Vial of LIFE is a simple, but easy way. A tube or packet is provided or you may pick out a container of your own if it is identified well – the notice is usually posted on your refrigerator door.

Vial of LIFE stands for Lifesaving Information for Emergencies. The sticker is usually red with a red cross. This program is used to provide the patient’s medical information when a patient is not able to speak or remember this information.

You may supply contact information or any other information that you feel is relevant to share such as the name of your doctor, your medication list, or known allergies. It is suggested to include pictures of family members, including your pet(s), to help identify each member.

Our pets are a part of our families, and we worry about what may happen when we are ill. In your kit you need to provide name, breed of cat or dog, age and who to call. You may want to leave information on where to leave the pet (example – back room) where is food and water, medications and the veterinarian’s name and phone number.

You may want to add a cat or dog notice at your front door on the window or door so that the emergency crew knows when they step into your home. You do not need to worry that your pet was let out of the house. It can be as simple as "dog and cat inside".

There are various sites on line which provide the Vial of LIFE kits, or you may ask your local emergency companies or doctor for information.

CHOCOLATE BLUES

by Darrell Lanpher

I know you love Chocolate but did you know
The more you eat the more you grow.

You start by eating just one M&M
Then you find you need more of them.

Pretty soon you graduate to a latte
Then after a while you will need one every day.

Your body will tell you when it's time to stop,
That's when you will find you're too big to hop.

When you get so big you cannot hop
You will have to find a reducing shop.

When you lose all the fat and get real thin
You can never ever eat chocolate again.

Three Up on Ananias *

by Grantland Rice
A group of golfers sat one day,
Around the nineteenth hole,
Exchanging lies and alibis,
Athwart the flowing bowl.

“Let’s give a cup,” said one of them,
A sparkle in his eye,
“For him among us who can tell,
The most outrageous lie.”
“Agreed,” they cried, and one by one,
They played way under par,
With yarns of putts and brassy shots,
That traveled true and far.

With stories of prodigious swipes,
Of holes they made in one.
Of niblick shots from yawning traps,
As Vardon might have done.
And when they noticed, sitting by,
Apart from all the rest,
A stranger, who had yet to join,
The fabricating test.

“Get in the game,” they said to him,
“Come on and shoot your bit.”
Whereas the stranger rose and spoke,
As follows, or to wit:
“Although I’ve played some holes in one,
And other holes in two;
Although I’ve often beaten par,
I kindly beg of you,

To let me off, for while I might,
Show proof of well-earned fame;
I never speak about my scores,
Or talk about my game.”

They handed him the cup at once,
Their beaten banners furled,
Inscribing first, below his name,
“The Champion of the World.”
