An Evening to Remember

by Alice Weaver

Fall is here and it's time for some fun. A wine tasting party, An Evening to Remember, is nearly ready. We welcome all members of Woodburn Estates to join us, Tuesday, October 8, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Aurora Colony Vineyards is pouring 5 different wines including red, white and a dessert wine. Bauman's will be pouring their own hard cider and a non-alcoholic sparkling cider. Five tastes are included in the admission of $15. Along with the tasting there are hors d'oeuvres, desserts, chocolates, infused sparkling water and A LOT OF FUN. Wine and cider will also be for sale by the glass and by the bottle.

We can't do without special gifts! Our raffle baskets are impressive and tickets for those will be $1 each or 6 for $5. We also have some fun games with prizes for the

We hope you will join us in the Auditorium on Tuesday, October 8, for fun and new memories.

Bucket List Travel Club

by Connie Cobb

One member just returned from an East Coast Cruise to New England and Canada. One member is still plotting scenic places to visit in New Mexico. One member was happy to report that she was able to upgrade her family's Caribbean cruise in February. Two members are very excited about their escorted tour to Rome and southern Italy this month. One member would like to visit all the National Parks. One member discussed immunizations/visas and other details for the upcoming holiday trip to Southeast Asia.

Our group was small for the September meeting but our conversations were world-wide. It's a no-host, agenda-free hour to share travel opportunities, opinions and experiences.

In the next couple of months we will have information available for an Alaska Cruise/Tour that we are planning for September 2020. If this sounds like a trip for you please join us at our next meeting, October 7 at 3:00 p.m. in the Conference Room. All are welcome.

Don't Get Me Started

by Anna Phillips

I think we could cut violence in America by 50% if we could just find a way to eliminate robocalls. Well, maybe I'm exaggerating but it's a huge problem for me. I get as many as ten calls in one day!

Yes, I block the numbers. When you are in the middle of appointments with various clinics you don't always know who is legitimate and who is not. Specialty medical services can come from many different providers and if you miss those calls it's a hassle to get back in touch.

After an entire day of trying to reschedule an important test I was Mrs. Mc Nasty when my husband returned from fishing. He was tired but happy, because he caught a large salmon. My first inclination was to throw the Seal a Meal at him and the fish in the trash. Luckily I was able to hold it together but what about next time? I have over 200 blocked numbers on my phone!

My car has Bluetooth so it's easy to answer the phone. What's difficult is deciding whether to answer or not. The name (or number) shows up on my dash but in the summer it's almost impossible to see it clearly. Is it a spammer or is it that guy from the insurance company I'm thinking about doing business with?

I have ignored the calls answered the calls and hung up on the calls. I have toyed with the callers who think I'm going to be an easy mark, I have screamed at the caller and I have pleaded with them to consider another line of work. Nothing makes a difference. The calls keep coming and they can ruin my day. "You can start your day over at any time" is lost on me after the third re-start.

I signed up for a service that blocks calls for a yearly fee of $24.99. I will say it has blocked a few calls but probably about 1/3 of what I get. You can help it out though by going in manually and adding numbers you want blocked to their list. I think that makes me a sub-contractor and they should pay me a fee for my service!

You know what I really want? I want to take all those callers put them each in a tiny room with a speaker then blast them with robocalls for about a month.

Well-Received

by Eric Timmons

Shred Day took place Saturday, September 14, and once again it was a hit! Over two hundred people with bags of paper in hand, filled the big truck. A record of over 4 tons of personal documents were shredded and recycled. Snacks were provided as they watched the truck shred their documents. The event is well received by the community and plans are already underway for next year's event.

A special thanks to the sponsors – Lila Timmons and Blair Knight with the Knipe Realty Home Heart Team; Robertson Home Inspections LLC; Simple Chores; Lori Powers at Academy Mortgage Corporation; Hometown Sewer and Drain Services LLC; Justin Stearns with State Farm Insurance; RoofRite Roofing Services; and K'Bella Salon. We also want to thank Cascade Park for providing the refreshments.

St. Monica's Circle

The 2 month break for summer was great, but our September 9th get together was greeted with enthusiasm.

Rita Girard gave a report on the September 7th Craft Fair Vendors Meeting. Volunteers signed up for the time they would be able to work at our tables on September 21st. We will have a table in the hospitality room as well as in the Auditorium. St. Monica's will have baked goods and crafts to sell. Bev Ramsey will have her handmade Christmas stockings and she showed us the table mats she is making.

Shred Day Event Hummingbird Etiquette

by a concerned feathered friend

Humming birds, (buzzy-birds), don't like leaving for the winter while there is an easy food supply. They hang around and perish during the winter cold.

Our tiny friends do indeed migrate, but only for food. So, when people continue filling the feeders during winter, the "buzzys" freeze to death because it's too late for them to leave.

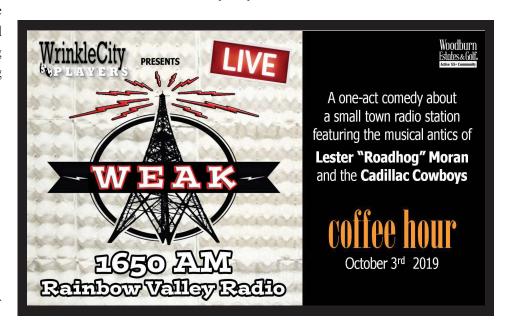

Folks should remove their buzzy-bird feeders around the first of September to encourage the little guys to leave for warmer areas.

I'll Fly Away

by Anna Phillips

When I submitted my story about the little Junco bird I rescued, I said I would contact Turtle Ridge Wildlife Center and find out later how it was doing. I started to call a couple of times, then changed my mind. What if the little guy didn't make it? I just wasn't ready to cope with that. But, it seems like every day or two someone asks, "Did you call yet?" or "How's the bird?"

Then last week a friend pointed out that I had left everyone hanging, kind of like a mystery, and that sure wasn't my intent. So today I called. My little bird is doing well in an aviary with other birds near the same age. They are set to be released in two or three weeks! Mystery solved.

Men's Golf General Meeting Minutes

Woodburn Estates Men's Golf General Meeting September 4, 2019

President Ken Bourne called the Meeting to order at 10 AM in the Dining Hall, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Roll Call: All Officers & Committee Chairmen/Representatives were present unless otherwise noted in this report. There were 39 members in attendance at today's Meeting.

New Members Present: None.

President's Report: President Bourne welcomed the members and then introduced Darold Pedersen as our 2019 Club Champion. President Bourne then reminded the members of the annual Turkey Shoot scheduled for Thursday, September 12th. He then made the following motions relative to the Turkey Shoot: Motion 1...I move to add $500 of the Club's funds toward the prize fund...Motion 2...I move to increase the entry fee for play in the Turkey Shoot from $3.00 to $10.00...Motion 3...I move that following play in the Turkey Shoot that a lunch be provided and paid for out of the Clubs funds. All motions seconded and following discussion, all three motions were passed unanimously. President Bourne then stated that a sign-up sheet would be provided in the Pro Shop for participation in the Turkey Shoot, a shotgun start at 8:30 AM. President Bourne announced that the front 9 of our golf course will be closed for a week beginning on September 16th for aeration/sanding, tree removal, paving, and renovation of three tees. The back 9 will have aeration/sanding done on Tuesday, September 17th. President Bourne suggested that the Men's Golf Club arrange for golf at another course on Thursday, September 19th. Len Westphal agreed to schedule an out of town golf event and obtain the names of members interested in playing in this event.

Vice President's Report: VP Will Abshere first reported on the Greens Committee Meeting as he is our representative on said Committee. Will stated that Bernhardt Construction will be renovating the tee boxes on hole numbers 3, 6, & 8. Following renovation, these tees will be closed for the remainder of the year with temporary tee boxes provided on these three holes. VP Abshere then led a discussion on a "red flag" program wherein a golfer with either a handicap card or a doctor's statement could obtain a red flag to display on their golf cart, allowing them closer access to greens on the golf course. Will also reminded members that due to weekly maintenance on our course there will be no play allowed before 9 AM on Mondays. The Greens Committee also discussed the need to obey the white lines near the greens to not allow closer access and areas that are chained off. Members commented on the white lines being drawn from the cart path all the way to the end of the property. Extending the white line to the end of the property line is not necessary as often there is a cart path on the left side of the fairway intended to provide access around the green on that side. White lines should only extend from the cart path to a point reasonably left of the green. VP Abshere will provide this reasoning at the next Greens Committee Meeting.

Treasurer's Report: Treasurer Mark Jorgensen provided the following report: Balance of the Club's Account as of September 3, 2019...$4,147.39...Balance of the Men's Golf Club Voucher Account as of August 30, 2019...$9,060.56.

Secretary's Report: Secretary Chuck Johnson announced that he would be stepping down as Secretary of the Men's Golf Club as he has served in this position for five Presidents beginning November 2, 2011. Later in discussion with President Bourne, Secretary Johnson agreed to remain as Secretary until the end of 2019.

Committee Reports:

Handicap: VP Abshere is a co-chair of the Handicap Committee with Clint Hansen. He reported that a new system will be implemented next year. The Ladies Golf Club has asked Kelly Neely of the OGA to address the new system at a seminar, the date and time yet to be determined. Changes known to Will included: daily revisions, index recalculated each night, 8 lowest of the last 20 scores will be used to determine handicap, trends will not be shown, and handicaps for both male and female golfers will be capped at 54 to encourage new golfers and older golfers to continue to participate in the game of golf.

Mixed Tournaments: Representative Fred Bourne announced that participation in the Mixed Tournaments in 2019 was excellent with 124 golfers the least amount of golfers in any of the tournaments.

Rules: Chairman Jim Hutchinson reminded members that "ground under repair" must be so marked if a free drop is allowed. Otherwise, the ball must be played as it lays or a penalty drop taken. The maintenance crew is responsible for marking any and all areas deemed to be ground under repair.

Sunshine: Chairman Ron Gripenstraw reported that he sent a "get well" card to Pat Lilienthal, wife of member Ron Lilienthal. Ron will also be sending a "get well" card to member Gene Finley.

OGA: Representative Paul Eaton reported that the Annual Meeting of the OGA will be held in October. Nominees are being sought in four categories, such as Golf Course Superintendent of the Year.

Membership: Chairman Stan Hiller reported that we currently have 273 members, 6 more members than at this same time last year.

Unfinished Business: Nothing to report.

New Business: VP Abshere reminded the members that our Annual Meeting will be held on October 2nd. At this Meeting, Officers for the upcoming year are elected by the members. Nominations were opened at this time. Ken Bourne was nominated for President by Will Abshere. Len Westphal was nominated for President by Russ Krussow. Mark Jorgensen was nominated for Treasurer by Ken Bourne. Members interested in being either Chairmen or Representatives for any of the Club's Committees can make their interest known to the incoming President.

Closing Member Comments: Paul Eaton commented that the white line from the cart path to the property line if followed would slow the pace of play. Ron Sartin stated that the American Disability Act (ADA) requires that our golf course allow a "red flag program" for golfers that qualify as disabled. President Bourne stated that the Golf Chair, Paula Kilgore, is researching the ADA requirements. Steve Hobson inquired as to the balance of our 50/50 Raffle. President Bourne will follow up on this request. Allan Lindberg suggested that perhaps there could be an additional line placed nearer to the greens for red flag golfers. Stan Hiller stated that golfers not qualified for a red flag that knowingly violate the white lines or chain areas should be subject to a disciplinary action. Frank Morrison inquired as to why the red plastic markers designating the 100 yards to the middle of the green were removed. These markers were being run over and broken by golf carts and each hole has an in ground red 100 yard marker. Head Pro Jason Hoth stated that there is a need for a golfer to be a partner to another golfer in the Men's Golf Club Play tomorrow, tee time of 7:44 AM.

Door Prizes: The 50/50 Raffle was then held. The total money collected for today's raffle was $74.00. Will Abshere had the winning ticket and split the pot, winning $37.00.

Closing: President Bourne asked for a motion to adjourn our Meeting, the motion made, seconded, and approved. The Meeting was adjourned at 11:05 AM.

NOTE: ON WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 2019, THE ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING WILL BE HELD AT 10 AM IN THE DINING HALL.

In 2017, eclipse chasers the world over were gathered in the United States. For the first time since 1878, a total eclipse of the sun crossed the American west and proceeded into the Gulf of Mexico. The cosmic experience itself was not really so rare but the eclipse location was indeed rare. The last time our nation was in the path of an eclipse was when the nation was divided over the recent election of President Rutherford B. Hayes. That summer, congress held hearings into allegations of voter fraud. Hmm.

Even if all Americans cannot always agree politically, all Americans can agree scientifically and hopefully be inspired by such an event and even imbue our next generation of scientists to explore world phenomenons such as eclipses. A few scientific studies have suggested that animals are affected by an eclipse and say that songbirds go quiet and farm animals lie down while crickets chirp and chickens begin to roost during an eclipse. We live on a very interesting planet and my hope is we can all cooperate to keep the planet and ourselves healthy.

Activities Report

Walgreens would like to have a flu clinic here. We need 25 people to sign up in order for this to happen. There is a sign-up sheet at the resource table at coffee hour. This will be paid by your insurance. A date will be coming if we get enough people.

Please do not bring large bills to any event here. It is very hard for us to give change for $100 or $50 dollar bills. The events usually only cost from $1 to $15. Thank you.

It is only $1.00 for coffee and donuts and we will collect this the entire coffee time 09:30-11am

This has been a very busy time for us with 4 events back-to-back. The volunteers are working their fingers to the bone, so tell them 'thank you' for their service. It goes a long way to know their hard work is appreciated. Thank you all for attending, we hope it was fun for everyone. Please support all the efforts being made for you.

Our goal is to keep people in this community busy with fun activities. We try our best and we learn from every event we have, to make it better for you and easier for us.

The Senior Estates Park adjacent to Country Club Road is owned by the city of Woodburn and they will be grading the paths on October 16 and paving the paths on October 21. Many members use this as a dog park, which is okay by the city.

A cougar was spotted recently near Woodburn High School/Tukwila area. Watch all your animals if they go outside. There are about 6,000 cougars in Oregon. Check wildlife.com for animal activity. If you encounter a cougar in the wild, you should:

- Stay calm and stand your ground.
- · Maintain direct eye contact.
- Pick up any children, but do so without bending down or turning your back on the cougar.
 - · Back away slowly.
- Do not run. Running triggers a chase response in cougars, which could lead
 - Raise your voice and speak firmly.
- If the cougar seems aggressive, raise your arms to make yourself look larger and clap your hands.
- If in the very unusual event that a cougar attacks you, fight back with rocks, sticks, tools or any other items available.

Be sure to keep doors and cars locked. People are watching for any opportunity to take your things. Watch all the empty houses around here; they attract crime in the neighborhood. Call police non-emergency number 503-982-2345!

The craft fair, headed by Karen Linton, on September 21, had 525 people come through our doors. Thanks to all the volunteers, who worked so hard. The new raffle system worked very well and made over $400.00. The librarians held their book sale at the same time in the west wing and we hope they did well also. Good job everyone!

Are you ready for the BIG ONE? This fall we will be having disaster readiness for our community.

Laugh today and have FUN.

A Borrowed Black 1958 Ford Thunderbird

by Rick A. Wehler

Prologue: It took a while to write this story about a 1958 fishing trip with my father and his friend, because I had to rely on my memory. When a thought popped in, I'd write it down before I forgot it. Later, during moments of clarity, I'll separate fact from fiction. Today, I decided, it's unlikely that Marilyn Monroe came along and the wind on the lake blew her skirt up.

Dad: "Ricky, it's time to get up."

Ricky: "It's still dark."

Dad: "Get up. Frosty will be here soon."

It was 4:30am on a July morning in 1958. Dad and his best friend, Frosty Williams, both 30 years old, had borrowed a black, 1958 Ford Thunderbird from Hull Dobbs Ford, the Minneapolis car dealership where they worked as salesmen.

Dad: "Ricky, we're heading to the Canadian border for fishing and camping. It's a long drive. We've got to get going."

I was excited to be included in the trip even though, at 8 years old, I'd never been fishing or camping. I downed two bowls of Frosted Flakes while Dad and Frosty loaded a holstered pistol, a bottle of liquor and other contraband into the Thunderbird's excuse for a trunk.

I sat in the backseat of the modern sports car while Dad and Frosty occupied the front bucket seats that were separated by a center console with a built in ashtray. I didn't question the lack of fishing and camping gear.

Before I knew it, we were cruising due north on a two lane highway, leaving Minneapolis well behind. I gazed at the long, flat, empty road ahead in the early morning light from between the bucket seats, and through the Marlboro cigarette smog that filled the cabin.

Dad: "Ricky, read the speedometer."

I rubbed my stinging eyes, looked over his shoulder and read: "104!"

Dad: "That's right. This machine can fly!"

Frosty: "It's starting to float."

Dad laughed and slowed down a bit.

Sometime later, we left the paved roads well behind too. Up ahead, the horizon was far off; the sky, pale blue. The scattered clouds reminded me of Mom's mashed potatoes, without the gravy.

Dad turned off the main dirt road and meandered through many a bumpy, wooded, back road until we arrived at a lodge on the southern end of Crane Lake. Dad had reserved a tipsy, aluminum boat with a beat up motor, filled with enough fishing and camping gear to keep it steady on the big lake.

We motored along close to the rocky, inlet strewn, shoreline, until we entered the Little Vermilion Straits on the Minnesota/Canadian border. We followed the strait until Frosty pointed and said, "There's the island dead ahead." As we approached, he commented, "Oh, someone's already camping there. We'll have to find another spot."

Dad followed Frosty's directions until they spotted a rock outcropping bordered by trees that jutted into the strait. We pulled up onto shore at dusk and unloaded the gear. Dad and Frosty erected a floorless, canvas tent, unrolled army blankets, set up a campfire pit, uncorked a bottle of booze, poured a little into two camping cups, and handed me a warm bottle of Bubble-Up.

We sat by the campfire and looked out over the water as the full moon's reflection stretched across the strait, bouncing on the waves. Even at my age, I was stunned by the beauty. We donned our lack of swimming suits and floated on the waves, within the moon's reflection.

I slept soundly on the rocky ground wrapped in an army blanket.

The next morning Dad said, "You woke in the middle of the night, sat up, pointed at the tent door, and screamed 'a bear!' Frosty and I jumped out from under our blankets; and Frosty unholstered his Ruger pistol. There was no bear, so we all settled back down." That was news to me.

We hiked up into the woods and found a border marker between the two countries; left foot in the U.S.A., right foot in Canada.

Later that morning, after a breakfast of scrambled eggs and bacon, we climbed aboard the now roomy aluminum boat and headed out hunting for a fishing spot. Dad and Frosty had purchased a few dozen sucker minnows as bait. We stopped at a likely spot, and Frosty gave me some fishing instructions.

Frosty: "Ricky, this is a casting rod and reel. See this hook? I'll stick a minnow on it. Good. Now put the rod over the edge of the boat and let the reel spin and the line sink to the bottom. You'll know because the reel will stop spinning. Then crank in to the count of three and stop. We're fishing for walleye, so you'll see the rod tip pulled down a little when they're nibbling. The third time the rod tip goes down, put your thumb on the reel and pull back hard. You'll know if you have something. Then just start cranking the handle."

We didn't have any luck that morning and headed back to camp. As I sat on the shore eating my peanut butter and jelly sandwich; I fished with my rod lying on the ground, holding the line in my hand, and dipping the hooked minnow into the water. Minutes later, I saw a giant head reach for the minnow. I pulled in the line and the head disappeared. I couldn't imagine what it was. I yelled, "Dad, Dad, come here, hurry."

Dad and Frosty ran over expecting a problem.

Ricky: "Dad, there's a giant head down there."

Dad: "Dip your bait in again."

Sure enough, up came the head. Frosty ran to the tent and returned with his Ruger pistol. He took careful aim, with the pistol in his right hand resting on his raised, left elbow, and fired at the head. It disappeared and didn't come back; so we returned to camp.

After lunch, I looked towards the shore and there was a giant snapping turtle crawling along the rocky shore with a blood trail behind it. Frosty came up, took his shooting stance, and shot it again, twice.

Frosty: "That's a monster. It'd make for a great dinner."

Ricky: "You can eat those?"

Dad: "Sure, if we had a pot big enough to cook it."

Frosty picked it up and pitched it into the lake.

We climbed aboard the boat, leaving the fishing gear behind, to do some sightseeing. Dad, up front, spotted a loon, and with Frosty at the tiller; we gave chase. That loon turned on a dime, several times, and Frosty did much the same with our shallow-hulled boat while Dad reached forward with the landing net. We all shouted with excitement; including the loon that finally gave us the bird, dove beneath the surface, and escaped.

Late afternoon, near a big rock that stuck up out of the water; we found a good fishing spot. Dad and Frosty caught a few nice-sized walleyes. Then I had my first bite. I did just as Frosty instructed: let the rod bounce three times and pulled back hard. I had one. I just kept cranking as the rod bent into an upside down U and jumped to and fro.

Dad yelled, "I've got the net. Slide your rod this way." Together we boated my first fish, ever!

We caught several walleyes in that spot and then headed to camp. Dad and Frosty cleaned the fish and fried them over the campfire in a big iron skillet, sizzling with the bacon grease that Frosty had saved from breakfast. Never, ever, in my life had I tasted anything so delicious. What a change from our meals at home that consisted of anything cheap, especially mashed potatoes.

That night went by peacefully, no bear sightings, and we were out early, fishing on our hot spot. We caught several walleyes once again, but disaster, the stringer broke loose from the boat and sunk to the bottom with all of our catch.

Dad had always been a top notch swimmer, a competitor as a teenager. He could still swim three lengths of the pool at the YMCA underwater, without taking a breath. Dad stripped down, not feeling the need for a swimsuit in the wilderness, and dove all around the boat, celebrating as he surfaced, by holding the stringer of fish high above the water.

I continued to follow the successful fishing technique I'd learned from Frosty. Wham! No three rod jiggles, just wham! I jerked my rod back, it slammed forward and bent over the edge of the boat. I tried to reel but the reel wouldn't reel.

Frosty: "Ricky, it's ok; wait a minute. When the line goes slack a bit, then reel."

I followed his advice and within a few minutes, the biggest fish I'd ever seen broke the surface. The water splashed as it struggled; first on its left side, then flipping over and diving again. It was a ways away from the boat as it fought. I reeled and reeled.

Frosty: "Play it Ricky."

I didn't know what that meant and kept reeling. The fish jumped into the sky, flopped back down onto the waves, splashed like crazy, and bit through my line. My rod jumped backwards. I was afraid that I'd done something wrong.

Frosty: "That's ok. It's not your fault. We should have put a wire leader on your line that the fish couldn't bite through."

Ricky: "What kind of fish was that?"

Frosty: "A northern pike. They have really sharp teeth."

Ricky: "How big was it?"

Frosty: "At least 15 pounds, another monster. There's more of them out there, it used to be. and you have a wire leader, so go get 'em."

No northerns, but we caught so many walleyes that we ran out of minnows.

Dad put a Marlboro butt on his hook, laughed, and sunk it to the bottom. Immediately, he caught a fine walleye. Frosty still had a minnow on his line and landed a walleye at the same time. Dad and Frosty both slapped their catches and managed to get the fish to cough up half eaten minnows, our new, successful bait.

We dined like kings again that night; stayed up late, after the moon set, and floated on our backs in the quiet waters beneath the unbelievable, swirling masses of color, pink, green, yellow and blue, that are the Northern Lights.

The next morning, we packed up and headed home. On our return trip, I bathed in the memories of our adventure as we flew through space and time in a borrowed, black, 1958 Ford Thunderbird.

Divorce Hearing Italy

from the Internet

A man and his wife were getting a divorce at a local court in Italy, but the custody of their children posed a problem.

The mother jumped to her feet and protested to the judge that since she had brought the children into this world, she should retain custody of them.

The man also wanted custody of his children, so the judge asked for his side of the story.

After a long moment of silence, the man rose from his chair and replied: "Your Honor, when I put a coin into a vending machine, and a Coke comes out, does the Coke belong to me or to the machine?"

Questions To Board Of Directors Candidates

Included in the last issue of News & Views, was a half-page insert with the following information on the back. If you have misplaced your copy or tossed it and now have questions, here is your second opportunity: Clip this article, fill-in your questions, and return it to the WEG main office. Thank you!

Three Board of Directors positions are now open. The candidates will be introduced to our members at the weekly Coffee Hour, October 10th. At the Coffee Hour, the applicants will be given an opportunity to share their qualifications for board membership.

The Nominating Committee would like to have an opportunity to present questions to the nominees from our residents that could further help everyone when it comes to a voting decision.

A form below is included for you to cut out and deliver to the office, or you can email your questions directly to: nancy.dale.woodburnestatesgolf@gmail.com

The Committee will select some of the questions that pertain directly to being a board member. (IE: expenditures, future goals, etc.)

A Child Guide for Elders

by Betty Judevine

- 1. Always have fun with your grandkids. They like you and you like them.
- 2. Your kids want to take the lead now that you are 'over the hill' (even though we know that they are climbing it.)
 - 3. You might as well act the part. They have a physical advantage.
- 4. Let them take you to appointments and get your groceries. They will take you out to eat but you might have to foot the bill.
- 5. They will assume a parental role and if you don't want a battle, behave or act like ten again.
- 6. My granddaughter looks me in the eye; my son looks aloft or to the side. Eye contact with him can be fiercely competitive.
- 7. Suffering from an ego-slam I certainly appreciate my peer group. When you think about it, haven't we always? Mom and Dad didn't understand me either.
- 8. So go forth with your grandkids, and back with your kids. All might get on the right course again.
- 9. That walker you use now to keep walking is just a reminder of the playpen that was used to keep you contained. Thus is the Crux of the Matter.

MUST be made with the office 503-982-1776.

When it comes to Roofing... Don't be fooled by what the competition may have to offer!

Over the past 15 years RoofRite Services has successfully installed over 140+ New Roofs within Woodburn Estates and we have the statistics to back it up! It has always been our goal to exceed the minimum requirements for roof installation. New roofing contractors come and go, but RoofRite Services has a proven track record and, the reason we install the larger number of roofs can be summed up in three ways:

- 1. Above Standard Quality Products and Service.
- 2. Long Term Service and Stability with Proven Track Record.
- 3. Lifetime Warranty High Wind Algae Resistant Shingles For a free estimate or consultation on your roof call
